

'Managing with Less'

Exploring the Economic and Environmental Benefits of a Sound and Sympathetic Course Management Policy

Date: Tuesday 28th February at 6.30pm

Location: Temple Golf Club, Henley Road, Hurley, SL6 5LH

Chaired by Michael Barratt

(Broadcaster, writer and former advisor to the R & A Golf Course Committee)

An evening workshop aimed at illustrating how best to meet the challenge of maintaining the quality and playability of the golf course whilst respecting and positively contributing to the indigenous social and natural environment. Since the mid nineties Temple has worked hard to reduce course management costs and enhance biodiversity but without compromising on the quality demanded by today's golfer. This "warts and all" workshop will tell the story of this journey and includes contributions from:

Keith Adderley
Club Secretary

the interface between the policy and the golfer

Martin Gunn
Course Manager

how a sound course management policy benefits the playing quality of the course and the indigenous natural environment.

Gavin Bennett
Berks, Bucks & Oxon
Wildlife Trust

the benefits of less intensive land management on biodiversity

Michael Barratt

the wider issues covered by the R & A Golf Course Committee

Tickets: £15 to include coffee on arrival and a one course supper
