Goodbye to the DG of GTC!

A friend's farewell

The picture in the centre column shows a great servant to greenkeeping and a good friend – David Golding - who retires this month. All the best David!

Tribute to the DG

I recall once helping him to draft a CV – a requirement of the job. Like most greenkeepers he was shy about such things. This is how I described him then: 'David is an internationally regarded figure in greenkeeper education with a proven track record of success. Resilient and resourceful under pressure with outstanding leadership qualities. Routinely active at the highest levels, this former professional greenkeeper has well developed communication skills and a reputation for forging excellent working relationships with government officials, representative bodies and membership organisations. Highly motivated with a cheerful disposition and positive attitude he leads a successful team at the GTC who consistently maintain the high standards he sets himself.'

In House – On Site

If you know what's needed my 'In-House On-Site' service can be a god-send to employers.

All my seminars (see outline list on this page) can be brought right to your door and run for your people on your premises.

Follow Up Visits

I started my summer tour of the work places of the people I trained this past winter at the Blackwell Golf Club in Bromsgrove, Worcestershire. There I met with Rhys Thomas (Course Manager) and the people I trained - James 'Jay' Martin (Deputy) and Craig Hartley (First Assistant)

It was great to talk to them about applying their learning and it was good to find out what has been working well for them and what new training is needed by the greens team in the future. If you would like me to visit you for a chat, contact me on the numbers below to make arrangements.
